DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on May 24th, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant argues that there is no suggestion that such a modification would be desirable. The examiner disagrees. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). Therefore it would have been obvious to modify Besanger's invention by providing a coolant distribution structure that is constructed of a porous material in order to improve the heat transfer process.

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, it would have been obvious to modify Besanger's invention by providing a coolant distribution structure that is constructed of a porous material in order to improve the heat transfer process.

Art Unit: 3743

In conclusion amended claim 1 is still rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Besanger US Patent No. 5,208,733 in view of DiGiacomo et al. US Patent No. 6,085,831.

Besange discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of providing a coolant distribution structure that is constructed of a porous material.

DiGiacomo discloses a direct chip-cooling through liquid vaporization heat exchange that does provide a coolant distribution structure that is constructed of a porous material. Therefore it would be obvious to modify Besanger's invention by providing a coolant distribution structure that is constructed of a porous material in order to improve the heat transfer process.

The rejection of the original claim 4 still applies from the previous office action dating back to February 25th, 2004. Amended claim 5 and original claims 6 through 12 are allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
